

Foreword

Dear stakeholders,

As we advance on our journey as a unified Group and in the definition of our new shared culture at EssilorLuxottica, integrity, compliance and ethics remain at the core of who we are and the way we conduct our business. We see this as a responsibility shared by us all.

Reflecting our commitment, this Code of Ethics outlines concrete principles on how we embed and promote ethical behavior in our interactions with all our stakeholders, including employees, customers, consumers, suppliers, franchisees, licensors and shareholders. It must inspire our choices and guide our behavior every day and everywhere, making EssilorLuxottica a great company to work for and work with, in line with our Mission of helping people to “see more and be more”.

As a young – albeit deeply rooted Group - our reputation is one of our most valuable assets. This is why the set of standards included in this Code cannot be compromised.

This document must be read carefully and be a part of the way you work. It is critical that its content is well known and understood by us all, as it highlights our responsibility, as a Group and as individuals, to conduct our business in an exemplary manner while continuing to grow in a responsible way.

Our future success depends on the ethical commitment of everyone in the Group.

A unified Code of Ethics
reflecting who we are

1. A unified Code of Ethics reflecting who we are

As a global industry leader conducting our business based on firm ethical foundations, we are committed to inspiring trust in all our stakeholders, both as a responsible business partner and as a corporate citizen. As an employer, employee, and citizen, each of us is an ambassador of the Group and has a personal responsibility to adhere to this Code of Ethics.

This Code of Ethics applies to all our employees where EssilorLuxottica operates. It is also a reference for external stakeholders, including shareholders, consumers, licensors, customers, suppliers, manufacturers, consultants, distributors, joint venture partners, landlords, franchisees ("Business Partners"). Employees are expected to read, understand and apply this Code of Ethics. At any given time, they have the possibility to consult any of its chapters, to understand our standards and principles on each matter.

This Code of Ethics is a living document: it will continue to evolve as we continue to integrate, adapt, and grow our Group.

The Compliance department has primary responsibility for regularly updating the document. In doing so, it will be supported by other departments and subject matter experts.

1.1 A new Code of Ethics, at the Core of EssilorLuxottica's Culture

- A new Code of Ethics underlying other key Group initiatives

As we define our shared culture and values and advance on the deployment on our Group-wide Eyes on the Planet sustainability program, this Code of Ethics outlines our commitments and expectations as a Group.

This Code of Ethics embeds some of the principles supported by Eyes on the Planet and its five strategic pillars: Eyes on Carbon, Eyes on Circularity, Eyes on World Sight, Eyes on Inclusion and Eyes on Ethics.

It details in particular our commitments and expectations from employees in line with the Eyes on Ethics and Eyes on Inclusion pillars, but also reflects our wider sustainability commitments, as a global corporate citizen.

- A reference for all employees

This Code of Ethics:

- applies and is binding to EssilorLuxottica, its subsidiaries and all their employees, regardless of their position within the Group or location. We apply similar principles to temporary and seconded staff of external companies.
- consolidates in one document some of our key principles as a unified Group. It does not replace any existing EssilorLuxottica policies, which employees should always continue to refer to.
- replaces and supersedes the former Code of Ethics of EssilorLuxottica as well as other codes of ethics including those of Essilor International, Luxottica Group S.p.a and GrandVision.

1.2 Implementing this Code of Ethics

- Communication and ongoing training and education

This Code of Ethics is publicly available on our corporate website* and on our global intranet OneEssilorLuxottica. As such it is readily available to all employees and must be acknowledged by them all.

It is currently available in several languages. In case of contradiction or discrepancy with the translated versions, the English version will prevail.

A mandatory online training module on the Code of Ethics will be available on the Group's open learning platform Leonardo and will be part of our onboarding program. Through this global environment, the aim is to foster a sense of belonging while continuing to instill our learning culture across the Group. Other types of training content will be created for employees who are not able to access the platform.

- Setting the tone from the top

Our Code of Ethics is designed and deployed with the involvement of the Group's top leadership, starting with the Chairman & Chief Executive Officer and the Deputy Chief Executive Officer.

All employees are expected to abide by the principles included in the Code of Ethics, but it is also the responsibility of all managers to ensure the Code of Ethics is implemented by their teams.

We expect managers to:

- lead by example, through their communication and conduct, by complying with and promoting this Code of Ethics at all times.
- ensure that the employees in their teams, as well as temporary and seconded staff, understand and comply with this Code of Ethics.
- complete the trainings relating to this Code of Ethics and ensure their teams complete such trainings.
- consult the relevant department if they have questions and report issues where necessary.

1.2 Implementing this Code of Ethics

- How we control the implementation of our Code of Ethics

The control over the implementation and compliance with this Code of Ethics is based on our three autonomous so called “lines of defense”:

The purpose of the first line of defense is to conduct preventive controls prior to implementing decisions and transactions to ensure that the tasks that are inherent in an operational or support processes are performed in compliance with our Code of Ethics. Such controls are performed by the operational or support staff, or by their managers.

Second line of defense

CONTROL FUNCTIONS

The purpose of the second line of defense is to conduct controls at prescribed intervals or randomly on some or all the decisions or transactions to ensure that the first line of defense controls have been implemented properly. Such controls are performed by various departments such as Internal Control over financial reporting, Risk management or the Compliance department.

Third line of defense

INTERNAL AUDIT

The purpose of the third line of defense is to perform periodic controls to ensure that the control system complies with the organization’s requirements and is implemented effectively and kept up to date. Such audits are performed by the Internal Audit department.

Reports of violation or suspected violation of this Code of Ethics made in good faith will be thoroughly investigated. Subject to applicable laws, the Group’s Human Resources department will take prompt and appropriate disciplinary measures, up to and including termination of employment, in accordance with the local regulations and procedures.

4.1 Protecting Intellectual Property, Brands and Innovation

- Key principles

Intellectual Property (“IP”) is an extremely sensitive and important topic for EssilorLuxottica. Our rich portfolio of eyecare and eyewear-related trademarks, domain names, copyrights, patents, designs, know-how and technologies are one of the foundations of EssilorLuxottica’s business. Prestigious licensed brands are also part of the EssilorLuxottica family. We take the utmost care to secure our IP (including our know-how) as well as the rights of third-party licensors.

Our brands and innovations are at the core of our Group as key equity elements and must be respected. A global framework has been put in place to secure their use and protect them. It includes awareness, clearance processes, trainings, and strategic monitoring.

We also fight against counterfeiting and look-alike as well as the expansion of parallel market that diverts goods to unauthorized sales channels. Dedicated resources are devoted to the protection and enforcement of EssilorLuxottica’s IP. We strive to respect the talents, creations, investments, perseverance and vision of all innovators and entrepreneurs. We take the utmost care to protect our creations and innovations through appropriate IP rights or trade secrets. We are responsible in respecting the rights of third parties. All employees can participate in the Group’s efforts to fight against counterfeiting and protect our brands.

4.1 Protecting Intellectual Property, Brands and Innovation

- EssilorLuxottica golden rules

- Respect the intellectual property of third parties and seek advice from our Legal and Intellectual Property departments ahead of projects and product launches.
- Be aware that to be valid, licensing, acquisition or sale of intellectual property must be in writing. Contact IP and Legal departments as soon as possible for any plan of licensing, acquiring or selling intellectual property, including before collaboration with third parties that may involve intellectual property.
- Report suspicious contents and suspected fake products through a dedicated email address reportfake@essilorluxottica.com to kickstart investigations, or to the Legal and IP departments.
- Strictly observe confidentiality and discretion about the operations of the Group, internally and externally, as well as all frameworks implemented by the Group to secure and protect our innovations and IP (including those of our license partners).

4.2 Protecting and Securing Information – Confidentiality and Cybersecurity

• Key principles

Given the increase of cyber threats globally, cybersecurity is of utmost importance to us and each employee has a role to play in protecting our systems and information.

The protection of information, both in electronic and paper form, is a fundamental principle for the continued success of the Group’s business activities. The disclosure of internal information can be detrimental to our business. As information is valuable, it is crucial to ensure its protection. Our business partners, who have access to our confidential information, are under a similar obligation as the Group’s employees to protect information from disclosure.

EssilorLuxottica prohibits the improper or illicit use or disclosure of confidential information, either internally or externally, as well as the dissemination of false or misleading information.

- Comply at all times with Information security policies and instructions. Complete mandatory Information Security training courses on Leonardo.

Refer to our Information Security Policies.

4.3 Information Systems, Internet and Social Media

• Key principles

Information systems are a fundamental way to share our pursuit of innovation and excellence with customers and consumers.

Together with our stakeholders, EssilorLuxottica strongly supports an open, constructive and transparent dialogue, seeking opportunities to do this through social media, as well as through traditional channels.

Our communication and behavior in the professional sphere reflect on the Group’s reputation. Employees are expected to show restraint, respect for others and not to share confidential information, including when using social media.

If the topic is on sustainability, the media or question must be referred to both the Corporate Communications and the Corporate Sustainability departments.

4.4 Fighting against Fraud and Theft

• Key principles

EssilorLuxottica condemns all forms of fraud or theft, whether the Group is a victim of it or would stand to benefit from it.

It does not just happen to others. Everyone is at risk.

Fraud can take many forms, either by the means used (such as forgery, use or production of counterfeit money or goods, concealment of income, concealment of evidence, abuse of trust) or by the nature of the fraud itself (for example: asset misappropriation, theft, scams, tax fraud, social security fraud).

In a business environment, a common type of fraud is the falsification of documents or the production of false accounting information, which can lead to embezzlement, fraudulent use of equipment, or undue advantages such as a tax cut.

We also condemn any form of theft, including theft in the Group's premises, stores or plants or during transportation. The Group Asset Protection team protects people as well as tangible and intangible assets from any intentional abuse or misuse of Group properties and resources.

• EssilorLuxottica golden rules

- Follow all Group procedures (vendor creation, procure to pay...).
- Be vigilant when responding to emails or requests, even when they seem legitimate.
- Screen potential external fraudsters: e.g., use of software for changing names or phone numbers to look like internal contacts; use of email address very close to the Group / vendor/ bank domain, emails or calls impersonating the Group's top executives, etc.
- Be vigilant about any request of change of payment details: e.g., verify the call identity, always apply "call back" procedures, be extra vigilant to urgent payment requests or payments to another country.
- Maintain controls to ensure that Group assets are properly controlled and protected, that transactions are executed only with the proper authorization, and that transactions are properly and accurately recorded, with attention to the quality of the information being reported.
- Report fraud suspicions to your manager, to the Internal Audit or Asset Protection or to our internal Reporting system, EssilorLuxottica SpeakUp.

The Group has placed particular importance on applicable laws, regulations and international standards such as the United Nations Guiding Principles for Business and Human Rights.

EssilorLuxottica aims to ensure that its activities comply with the International Bill of Human Rights and the principles on fundamental rights set out in the Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work of the International Labor Organization (ILO).

We attach particular importance to identifying and monitoring risks, as well as preventing and remediating material breaches of human rights and fundamental freedoms, that could arise as a result of our activities, those of our subsidiaries, and those of our suppliers and subcontractors in the supply chain.

Consequently, we expect from our subsidiaries and operations, and from our supply chain in general, that their operational practices comply with applicable laws and regulations and, more generally, they protect the dignity of human beings. The rules set out below should be applied to temporary or seconded staff and across our supply chain.

Hiring of individuals (either employees or temporary staff) below 18 years of age for positions involving hazardous work is also strictly prohibited. When hiring trainees or apprentices, we must comply with applicable regulations, that they are not subject to long hours interfering with their education and that their mission is strictly related to their education.

- Adequate Social Benefits & Social Security. Employees should be provided with adequate social benefits and social security, in compliance with local laws. All relevant social security contributions should be paid, collected and submitted.
- Contractors. Employees should ensure that contractors comply with these rules, including in their own.

5.2 Implementing a Sustainable Supply Chain

- Key principles

For EssilorLuxottica, supply chain efficiency is fundamental to guarantee the high quality of its products and services and contributes to maintaining and enhancing the Group's reputation.

EssilorLuxottica seeks to work with suppliers whose operational practices comply with applicable laws and regulations and, more generally, that protect the dignity of human beings, the health and safety of workers and the environment at large, including across their own supply chain. In this respect, the Group has launched a unique EssilorLuxottica responsible sourcing program leveraging the existing responsible sourcing standards and initiatives. The program contains the standards of ethics, labor, health, safety and the environment and requests all the Group's suppliers to adhere to these.

Supplier risk assessment and on-site audits are at the core of EssilorLuxottica's responsible sourcing program and are complemented by dedicated educational and awareness initiatives. Consequently, suppliers support the Group's commitment to ensure respect for human rights and the environment.

The Group is also implementing procedures to verify the integrity and sustainability of its suppliers, distributors, franchisees, and other business partners that must respect a common set of working principles.

The Group is working on a Unified Code of Conduct that will outline the sustainability principles that we expect from our Business Partners.

It is the responsibility of all employees to remain vigilant about the third parties that will engage with the Group.

- EssilorLuxottica golden rules

- Ensure that suppliers, distributors, franchisees and other Business Partners acknowledge and respect our existing and upcoming Sustainability Code of Conduct (or any equivalent document) on topics such as business ethics, trade sanctions, human rights and labor standards, environment, health and safety, information security or personal data protection.
- Comply with Group procedures to evaluate the supplier's environmental and social performance, as well as their business integrity, and train them on sustainability and integrity principles and practices, and exercise appropriate due diligence. Involve the Procurement department in the selection process.

- Key principles

From fighting climate change, managing and reducing water use at manufacturing sites, improving occupational health and safety, and ensuring equal opportunities to engaging local communities in outreach initiatives, the Eyes on the Planet sustainability program consistently supports the Group's Mission.

EssilorLuxottica's sustainability efforts extend to our subsidiaries in terms of environmental footprint reduction (e.g., energy optimization) and social impact on employees (e.g., development opportunities and mobility) and communities (e.g., access to quality eyecare).

Our compliance with environmental laws and goals towards carbon neutrality, circularity and environment reaffirm how our Mission, sustainability and business strategy are strongly intertwined at EssilorLuxottica.

All EssilorLuxottica's businesses and departments contribute to the Group's sustainability journey, whether in R&D, Operations, offices, subsidiaries or in our retail stores. Examples include the design of new lens technologies or frames (e.g., use of bio-based materials), water / waste reduction and recycling initiatives in our factories, distribution centers, offices and stores.

In addition, employees are encouraged to attend education and awareness initiatives on sustainability topics through a comprehensive online learning path on Leonardo.

Refer to the Group Sustainability Communication Policy.

5.4 Being Transparent in Lobbying and Advocacy

• Key principles

Lobbying activity is increasingly regulated, and several countries have adopted specific regulations or rules about lobbying and “representation of interests”.

Lobbyists are often subject to transparency obligations such as registration on a national registry, public declaration of the persons they have contacted, or list of their customers.

Lobbyists may be a Group employee or a third party (such as consultant, official lobbyist, law firm, think tank, NGO) exercising duties in the Group’s name.

There is no unique definition of lobbying, but it often refers to communications with authorities aiming at influencing a government decision-making, for example to influence the adoption of a law. There is sometimes a thin line between lobbying and simple advocacy (e.g., promoting visual health would generally be considered as advocacy, but trying to influence regulations promoting visual health may be

• EssilorLuxottica golden rules

- The engagement and activity of the lobbyist must comply with applicable laws, especially in countries where they are regulated (such as USA, France, United Kingdom, Australia).
- Lobbyists should clearly inform persons and third parties they meet that they are acting in EssilorLuxottica or its subsidiaries’ name and make sure they avoid any confusion with other activities that could be exercised in a private or professional capacity or in the context of any mandate (whether in associations, a political or trade union mandate).

5.5 Supporting our Mission

• Key principles

EssilorLuxottica's Mission is to help people around the world "see more and be more". The Mission drives the Group's strategy. It inspires the Group's integrated approach to sustainable development and its ambition to help eliminate uncorrected poor vision by 2050, providing employees with a unique sense of purpose.

Employees are expected to become strong advocates of our Mission and encouraged to get involved and volunteer in the several initiatives organized by the Group's Mission team to support communities, from addressing vision care needs to climate-related and social impact initiatives. It is generally a great personal experience and an opportunity to help others, as well as discover how sight has the power to change lives.

• EssilorLuxottica golden rules

- Leaders and managers should inspire employees to take pride in the Group's Mission and become advocates of our actions towards helping to eliminate uncorrected poor vision by 2050.
- Managers should encourage employees to engage in the Group's Mission initiatives.
- Employees must never be forced to donate to our philanthropic activities.
